The Famous and Historic Maxim Silent Firearms Company is revived by U.S. Fire Arms – in Hartford!

Shhhhh, this is big news . . . that is VERY, VERY QUIET!

Las Vegas, Nevada - January 30, 2008. The U.S. Fire Arms Mfg. Company (USFA) in Hartford, Connecticut today announced that Maxim products are on display at Shot Show 2008, USFA Booth 1331, for immediate delivery. USFA has acquired the name(s), rights, production drawings and models in 2006, to The Maxim Silent Firearms Company, and is going into initial production of historically accurate (made and marked) sound suppressors bearing the MAXIM name. The original Maxim company-made "silencers" for firearms from 1909 to about 1925. As with the original Maxims, the current Maxims are 100% made in Hartford, Connecticut, USA. Yankee Hill Machine Co is exclusive Mfg and Distributor.

History buffs will of course recall the unique feature of the Maxim was that it was NOT concentric to the bore (as all of today's suppressors are) but in fact was offset to allow the use of the original sights without modification.

This feature was unique nearly 100 years ago, and remains so today. Initial production will be in .22 caliber, with production expected to follow in .45 ACP, .40 S&W, 9mm Luger, Super 38 Automatic and rifle calibers .223 and .30.

Maxim products are on display at Shot Show 2008, USFA Booth 1331, for immediate delivery.
